Design and develop assessment tools

If you already have your TAE40110 Certificate IV in Training and Assessment, you need to ensure that you have attained competency in designing and developing assessment tools to meet the requirements of the new TAE40116 qualification.

This unit is designed to develop your understanding of the capacity of the assessment tools you use, and how to develop these tools to meet your requirements. This will help ensure confidence in the quality of assessment, and ensure that your assessment is valid, reliable, flexible and fair.

Course Content

There are three main steps to designing and developing assessment tools which will be covered during this course:

- Planning—What are the assessment requirements of the training package / accredited course? What does feedback from industry identify? What assessment methods are most appropriate for your learners?
- Design and development—How does each component of an assessment tool come together?
- Quality Checks—How do you review a tool prior to implementation?
